

Cloud Charlie

I saw Charlie in the clouds the other day.

A cloud had formed into a perfect image of our pet of many years. The same fluffy white fur from head to wagging slightly curved tail. He was gliding rather than running or walking.

The perfectly placed eyes were a bit different, not looking up pleadingly for a lap cuddle. Rather they were looking down, not downcast, but contented as if reassuring me that all was well with him. His was a happy face. Made me wonder.

Do animals, especially well loved pets go to heaven when they die?
